

MISHAWAKA NEWS EVENTS

MAN IN THE STREET

By W. E. WALLACH.

William Wallace Dodge, mayor-elect of Mishawaka. Didn't we tell you?

We freely forgive all our political enemies, and trust they will continue reading the paper "that does things."

And, as we said before, it was fitting that the republican chairman, who is an undertaker, should have been present at the obsequies.

Line up, boys, and pay—your debts!

Mary Garden brought from Europe 150 pairs of slippers. Mary must spend two-thirds of her time changing shoes and stockings.

It may be less dangerous to be "kidded by experts" than to be self-hypnotized by surplus ego.

Only hypochondriacs old maids demand to recount tragedies.

The Irish and the Scotch embraced and kissed each other Tuesday night and wound up by singing "Rule Britannia." Bill O'Neill taking the bass, Jim Hennessey, tenor; Fred Rankert, alto, and ourselves, soprano.

And who would have thought the doctors would succumb to the psychology of defeat and place their surplus kale on another loser?

Even Judge Bower admits he had illustrious company on his trip over the political Jericho road.

If the Iowa farmers would feed their corn to the hogs, and not burn it for fuel, and then keep themselves warm by denouncing the republican party as it deserves, then they would fare better. Even the moonshiners have more sense than to burn corn.

The former kaiser ought to know by the way he howls against taxes that he is human and not divine.

The old Christian doctrine "Let not your left hand knoweth what your right hand doeth" prevails over the selfish practice of cataloging and card indexing favors done. Old St. Paul still standeth sentinel.

Some famous English painter of the nobility will paint a picture of Charlie Chaplin. In these times nobility manages to tolerate the plebe who wields a vigorous check-signing arm.

One church publication says bootleggers ought to be summarily dealt with and would be worth more to the country dead than alive. Would there be coffins enough to bury them and erpe enough for the doors of bereaved families?

Nobody can fool us about Marshal Foch. We know how he has been raised. We know somebody will slip him something as he tours the country. We know he will take it.

Marshal Foch wants to see an American football game. Evidently the man has a curiosity to know what real war is like.

We don't mind getting back to normalcy in business, but we do hope that normalcy in the way of vittles will meet us on the way, as we do not care to leave this world without knowing once more the sweet comfort and peace of yard eggs at 10 cents a dozen.

Old age may wrap himself in his glories, but youth must ever be served.

Judge Johnnie Raab will be on the bench after the first of the year. Johnnie, we hope, will have mercy on us.

Congratulations to Mayor-elect Billy Dodge, Charlie Bingham and ourselves. We will receive them today over the telephone at the Hotel Whitcomb, St. Joe, where we are rusticating.

The future historian, reading, among other things, the details of Tuesday's election, will have to set down the fact that to date there were two Kings Canutes, and both were humbled by the on-rushing tide.

We delivered 15 speeches the night of Bill Dodge's election and we are having them scrubbed from our system by a Bill O'Neill Irishman.

We realize how noble and intellectual it is to be forever baiting the Japanese, but must confess that it is really monotonous.

"Bliss Carman has been crowned as Canada's poet," says a Montreal dispatch. The world is getting better. It used to be poets, not crown them.

Mell Mix wasn't a bit disappointed over the election after the talk he had with the outgoing mayor a few days ago.

Your Honor, Judge Raab, may be allowed to breathe in Mishawaka without getting pinched? A galaxy of voters wants to know.

We have been asked what job we are going to hold down. There isn't a job in the city hall we would take. We haven't asked for anything, don't expect to be offered anything and would refuse anything were it offered to us.

The amiable Rev. Fr. Shookert, whose annual bazar takes place in St. Bavo's hall Thanksgiving week, is going to have a baby show as an added attraction. Thus the mothers will have a chance to show their wares. But there is no poodle show, since Mishawaka is not a poodle town. The only thing we can suggest for the benefit of those who remain unblest is to borrow a baby and get in.

It is sufficient that we glory in the Christian victory to the point that our boss gave us a few days at the "seaside" to recuperate.

The record shows that when Mr. Wilson finally took Joe Tumulty's political works he captured everything from sentry to baggage train, leaving no line of retreat whatever.

Another thing that Marshal Foch's tour of the country accentuates is the almost unlimited kissing done by I. K. Parks and Billy O'Neill Tuesday night.

The New York girl known as the "beloved thief" has escaped and it is said the detectives and police can not penetrate her disguise. She is probably appearing with her ears uncovered.

Good-bye. May the Lord bless you and the devil miss you.
